

&c., &c., &c.

When the prosecution closed its case, the court adjourned for eight days in order to give the defense adequate time to make its preparations; the defense then adjourned until the morning of the trial in order to do justice to the accused and to themselves. With a view to this, the court had discharged several witnesses and the defense would come under that character of delay which would be irrelevant. By an act of the government would not be the loss of time by the trial judge.

all the facts before the War Department, and was duly directed to co-operate with the

of our arms. In regard to new subjects of population the wishes of the honest and loyal people of the State should be consulted, for they are always right. He recommends amendments "and additions" to the constitution in order to "mean as an advocate for interpell, nor do the loyal people of the State wish any sweeping chance." The restoration of civil law has worked well, and prosperity is promised in every section. Quality seems to be treated with severity, in proportion to the influence longs were looked upon by the French commander as beneath notice. Among the rumors was one that he would be joined by the Mexican General L. Robles.

minutes. She is pronounced a perfect success.

DR. THEODORE DENON and his son, Theodore, came near being wounded by a party of negroes on Saturday, while returning from their plantation at Ashepo to Walleroot, S. C. The assailants were the former slaves of Dr. Denon, were well armed, and fired a number of shots at the doctor and his son. The former received four shots, and the latter is in fact deemed mortally wounded.

As the 6.40 P. M. train from Syracuse was proceeding on its way to Rochester, over the Auburn road, on Saturday, a rail broke just behind the forward truck of the first car, as the train was rounding a curve, breaking the car in two, and throwing the others down a steep embankment. Two of the passengers were killed, but the following persons were seriously injured: L. M. Dean, Auburn; J. A. Kern, broken back; John Syracuse, bad bruise on right side of back; John Goring, Buffalo, bruised on shoulder and arm; Francis M. Wordes, Canandaigua, hurt severely, injured, and bruised all over; Martha Haverland, Waterloo; Mrs. Edwin Hutchinson, Auburn; Albert Reiss, Auburn.

Mr. Waterbury, for the prosecution, said there could be no difficulty in bringing Gregory forward at the proper time. It was sufficient for him to say that the charges, as made in his (Gregory's) affidavit, had been substantiated by oral testimony.

THE LOUISA VICKERDS MATTER.—This case was argued yesterday in the U. S. Commissioner's office, before Commissioner Newton. Baron Guido Von